Missouri River Bridge at Miami Inspection Complete

MACON – The Missouri Department of Transportation's (MoDOT) crews thoroughly inspected the Missouri River Bridge at Miami earlier this week. The inspection was in response to Governor Matt Blunt's request that MoDOT inspect all 11 truss bridges in Missouri similar in design to the bridge in Minnesota, which recently collapsed.

The crews inspecting the bridge found no changes in the bridge condition since the last inspection by MoDOT in November 2006. The bridge will be inspected again later this fall, which is the normal inspection schedule.

The Miami Bridge is scheduled for rehabilitation in 2009.
